

OLDFIELDS SCHOOL

May 17th, 2010

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing today on behalf of Glenton Davis and Soul Pop University. Glenton has visited our school two times this year. His first visit was a traditional school assembly where he presented his inspirational Empower Your Soul to Pop, program. Glenton is an energetic young man who connects with his audience on a personal level. His presentation was received so well that we invited him back to Oldfields to spend the day on campus and work with our acappella groups, Dubious Dozen and Images. His passion and commitment to inspire and help students is evident. He has taken his life experiences and turned them in to a valuable educational tool. Our students have responded well to his fresh perspectives and the professional way in which he shares his knowledge. We look forward to working with Glenton in the future.
